Women Making History:

Las Vegas Mayoral Candidate Kara Jenkins Announces First Campaign Co-Chair

Kara Jenkins highlights her women-driven team in honor of Women's History Month

Las Vegas, NV - To coincide with Women's History Month 2022, Mayoral Candidate Kara Jenkins names internationally recognized female artist Janel Raihl as co-chair of community and the arts. Her role as campaign co-chair focuses on ensuring the arts and local artists are acknowledged and remain a priority during Kara Jenkins' campaign and beyond.

Raihl is a painter, sculptor, and photographer who is most well known in downtown Las Vegas for her beautiful large-scale Arts District murals that often serve as a memorable backdrop for professional photography and countless selfies. She's also an appointed Art Ambassador for Coprabel in Belgium and Dubai.

In addition to serving as a campaign co-chair for Kara Jenkins, Raihl is the resident artist for Westgate Hotel and Casino. Furthermore, she partners with several community groups in Las Vegas to support their missions and create art.

"My selection as co-chair to Kara's campaign team shows that she doesn't just talk about diversity and inclusion—she's doing it," stated Janel Raihl.

Jenkins' stellar campaign team also boasts of other professional women including senior advisors, and a female public relations expert and outreach specialists. Learn more about the women leaders on her team here!

"I embrace the contributions of women as we work together to bring positive change to the city of Las Vegas," said Kara Jenkins.
